

Folk Costume Display and Presentations at the 2022 Extravaganza

by MARVIN MOEHLE

After many accolades at 2021 Extravaganza, Marvin Moehle will return to showcase a new display of costumes, jewelry and accessories. Marvin has one of the largest private costume collections in the United States. Often invited to speak at events throughout the United States, Marvin is currently preparing for a presentation at the Midwest June Camp where several of his costumes are being prepped to be on display at the world renowned St. Louis Art Museum.

Mr. Moehle will be giving two presentations entitled, "19th Century Folk Costumes of Eastern Europe: Cultural Crossroads." In Part I the focus will be on the Southern Balkan region and Part II will concentrate on costumes from areas that were controlled at various times by the Ottomans and others. In addition to his beautiful display, Marvin will provide detailed information of his collections, answer questions, and give tips on protecting and preserving your personal costumes.

If you were fortunate enough to see Marvin's collection at last year's Extravaganza, you experienced a real treat and won't want to miss this year's seminar and new display. You will be fascinated by Marvin's gift for storytelling and the depth of his knowledge on folk costumes.

We are thrilled we were again able to secure Marvin's appearance and expertise at the Extravaganza. Look for his costume display room at the end of the hall by the ballroom—an unforgettable experience of Balkan history as presented through folk costumes and accessories.
